Restored Hebron home goes up in flames

Resident's pets perish in blaze

By Elizabeth Muhlig
Correspondent

HEBRON — Braving sub-freezing temperatures, firefighters battled a smoky blaze that all but destroyed a restored century-old home on Route 30, a few miles north of the hamlet of West Hebron.

No one was at home when the fire started in the 1½-story wood frame residence of Albert Lepper III. But Washington County Fire Coordinator Robert Potter, who investigated the fire, said the family's two dogs and three cats apparently all perished inside.

As dozens of volunteers from Hebron and surrounding communities hacked away to get at the hidden flames raging beneath the roof and behind the walls of the house, dense acrid smoke poured out of windows and eaves, blanketing the area near the home in a smoky fog.

At least one firefighter, Salem volunteer Kevin Baylor, suffered smoke inhalation and had to be treated at the scene, Potter said.

The alarm was called in about 3 p.m. by Jeff Crosier, a foreman with the Washington County Highway Department, who was passing by at the time. Crosier said he became concerned because he saw "an extreme amount of smoke" emanating from the roof of the building.

"I knocked on the door and I could hear the flames and the boards really crackling in there," he said.

Potter said the fire probably began in the flue area of an unattended airtight woodstove.

"There was a hole burned through
